Themes:

The gov we learned about in grade school is a good way for people to govern themselves: 3 independent branches, a Bill of Rights....

It's a better way than the way we've come to be ruled — since the slow Erection camp of the last 20 years. And ~~all these fancy reasons they have~~ teach ~~later~~ what they teach in college — all the fancy & reasons for lying and for killing foreigners who don't threaten us, for ruling and policing the world — they all point in the wrong direction. We need to & relearn the worth of the system from of gov we learned about in grade school — the kind that's described in the Const. and the Bill of Rights.

The struggle for freedom — like the one that started here 200 years ago — is never really over. When Jefferson spoke of "eternal vigilance" as the price of liberty, he wasn't talking about foreign enemies; he was talking about encroachments by the people ^{in our} ~~we~~ ^{cheated} ~~to the~~ standing government and any. Humans in power, in any country, ~~will~~ act to expand that power and to hold on to it, at the public's expense. A republic can die that way. Ben Franklin described the kind of gov the Constitutional assembly had produced as "a Republic; if we can keep it."

3 JAN 73

[This trial is about whether we can keep a Republic and allow our officials to keep their actions as secret from us as they have.

(Can a Republic be governed in secret — and survive as a Republic? Do we still have a ^{democratic} republic — or an oligarchy, with an elected monarch?]

[To Walinsky: this ~~city~~ governing of this county is "an elitist game"; we are ruled by a ^{largely} ~~old~~ hereditary oligarchy that elects a monarch]

(all the money & manipulation serves our officials ;

We have saved hundreds of thousands of lives

but the War is still in the balance.
We need our servants in Congress —
our still thin army protection —
and we are still the only guardians
of our conscience, and our security,
and our children's power & freedom.

Never - example of change in any one country of that nature.

The new gods have never before led to a rally in the new who voted for N in the new hope for all of us.

① The Decline of Serious Debate

At many colleges there nocturnal sessions have not been debated at all, but anti-Administration views disguised as "truth" and in many cases backed by propaganda of the most vicious character...

③ ... For this is no longer a casual form of campus spring fever. The zeal of the civil rights movement is being transferred in some places ~~into~~ ^{to} a get-out-of-Vietnam campaign and this in turn is being widely distorted by Communist counter to the detriment of the Admin's effort to force a negotiated peace.

... Another mimeographed leaflet, circulated at the Univ of Wash on behalf of the SDS March on Wash, said: "The war in VN is a ^[as in 173] hideously ~~criminal~~ war. It is a losing war. It is a self defeating war. It is a terrifyingly dangerous war. and it is a civil war ~~in~~ which the only outside forces are those of the United States."

The YSA ... is circulating a pamphlet calling for "immediate withdrawal of all American troops."

All this is causing rumormongering of the anti-war movement in the British universities in the mid-1930's and oddly, it seems to have become more intense since Pres. Johnson offered unilateral regrets.

The basic question now is not whether the Admin has made mistakes in the past — it obviously has — but how it is going to make its way through the delicate process of diplomacy toward an honorable settlement. | It is a serious discussion + debate, but this is not what we are getting from my morning papers, where the tradition of responsible signing is supposed to be the strongest.

Laurie Engel, from Las Vegas, is probably going to contact you directly today here to have you as a fund-raiser in Las Vegas. ^{SAT. APR 13} It sounds like a good one, but I'm worried about your being in the middle of testimony then. Carol tried to tell her that, but she said she would talk to you herself.
